

5/10 of a second

- The driver's fear-frozen hands bend the steering column into an almost vertical position.
- The force of gravity impales him on the steering shaft.
- Jagged steel punctures lung and enters coastal arteries.
 - Blood spurts into his lungs.